* From அடப்பம் (Adappam) = A barber's case of razors and shaving apparatus.

† The correct classification is 6: 4.

‡ A man of low caste in Malabar, who lives under the protection of a Rajah or religious establishment (Wilson).

§ One who tends sheep.

¶ This is a very unusual application of the term "Advaitam" which is chiefly used to signify that sect of Brahmins, which holds that the human soul is one with the Deity.

§ Literally, "central country."

|| A player on the nāḡasaram, a well-known native musical instrument resembling a pipe.

¶ Nāikkān, though often erroneously used for Nāidu, is quite distinct from it. The latter is the proper cognomen of the Baliya, a Telugu speaking caste, whilst the former is an affix to the name of a class of Vanniars—all Tamilians.

* A Snake Charmer. The more correct classification would have been 16: 51.

† A Snake Charmer.

‡ A drawer of toddy from the Palmyra tree.

§ A man of the fifth caste, i.e., a Paraya (I Brāhman, II Kshatriya, III Vaisya, IV Śūdra, V Paraya). This is only a conventional term as the Vēdas only speak of the four great castes.

|| From Kōmanam—the smallest piece of cloth which can decently be worn. These Āndies or devotees are probably supposed to have so far given up the world that a Kōmanam will satisfy all wants, or is all they wear.

* This is the name of the caste, otherwise known as Dikshathar, who form a corporation for conducting all affairs, both secular and religious, connected with the pagoda at Chidambaram in South Arcot. Thillai is the name of the goddess. Three thousand of them are said to have come and settled there from the north. (See Garstin's Manual of South Arcot.) Others of the caste have probably been returned under the name of "Dikshatu" or "Soshia Brahmanas."

† A low caste held to be equivalent to barbers. Their claim to be considered Vellalars is disputed by the latter.

* Chettiyan means "weaver" (Dr. Gundert). In North Malabar senior male members of a few families among Chaliars are known as Muthu Chettiyan, Elaya Chettiyan, &c. These are considered to be honorific terms.

† One of the Ujar castes (Dr. Gundert).

‡ The former of the two means excommunicated from the caste, and the latter is the term applied to the wives and females of the Mūsad caste.

* Pot makers.

† The latter word "Aduthavar," literally means "relation." The secondary meaning of the word is barber and washerman of each caste as necessary for many ceremonies (Dr. Gundert). The occupation now generally followed by this caste is that of a hair dresser or barber. Hence the present classification. There are Adithavars for all the low castes, as Thiers, Asāries, &c.

* Dr. Gundert defines this caste as "workmen in leather." Hence the present classification. He further says that this caste is equivalent to Tolkollan, which caste Dr. Cornish has classified as 6 : 8, however, the caste under reference is classified as 17 : 2 on the strength of Dr. Gundert's definition. The classification of Tolkollan was allowed to stand, the rule observed having been that where a classification was found in Dr. Cornish's, that was to be adhered to.
† The term given to the females of the Eradi, Nedungadi, and such other castes.

- * From the Bombay Returns and from Dr. Wilson's Glossary, this caste seems synonymous with Désari.
† Classed by Dr. Sherring among 'Toddy-drawers' (Volume III, page 156).
‡ This classification was made on referring to the Schedule and finding that the occupation of Castes so returned was working in leather. "Māḍiga"—Shoemaker, though included by Dr. Wilson among the "Edagai" or left-hand castes, is only one of them, the others being, "Pānchāla," "Béri Shetṭi," "Dévānga," "Gāniga," "Golla," &c.
§ Dr. Gundert explains this term to mean a bricklayer, from which Dr. Cornish's classification seems wrong.
|| A fisherman (Dr. Wilson).
¶ From Gāla, a fish-hook (Dr. Wilson). Their occupation, as returned in the Schedule, is fishing.
** Dr. Cornish's Malayalam List, but Dr. Sherring classifies it as a sub-division of Okkaliga.
